Dulles Deplores
Soviet Blasts
In India

Russian Boss
'Rants At West

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles joined a visiting statesman Friday night in denouncing remarks by Soviet leaders now touring Asia as an attempt "to foment hatred between the East and West."

In a formal communique, Dulles and Foreign Minister Paulo Cunha of Portugal said they deplored all such remarks as they effort "to divide people who need to feel a sense of unity and fellowship and peace and mutual welfare."

The joint Portuguese-American statement did not refer to any specific remarks, but it said "various statements attributed to Soviet rulers visiting in Asia" were discussed by them during their round of conferences, including "allegations concerning the Portuguese provinces in the Far East."

Russia Backs India
Communist Leader Khrushchev said while visiting India that the Portuguese colony of Goa, on India's west coast, should go to India, regardless of Portugal's determination to fight for it if necessary. Soviet Premier Bulganin called Portugal's retention of the colony a "shame toward civilized people." He said Russia supports India's "right to oust" the Portuguese.

Friday night's communique said Dulles and Cunha considered that such statements "do not represent a contribution to the cause of peace."

Cunha said Portuguese policy toward its territories have been one of complete assimilation without distinction for race.

Top American officials viewed Khrushchev's remarks in Burma as a shocking blunder which would backfire against Russia.

They said Khrushchev's bitter remarks could wipe out much of the good will he and Soviet Premier Bulganin have built up during their Asiatic tour.

Khrushchev's earlier blast against the West while touring India, they believed, already had embarrassed Prime Minister Nehru in his efforts to keep his country neutral in the East-West conflict.

The State Department, while carefully noting Khrushchev's remarks, declined to comment on his words that there are "some very stupid people in America."

Likewise, the department held its fire on his accusation that Americans tried to persuade a visiting Soviet architect to defect to the United States.

Iverson Recovering From Heart Attack

Joe Iverson, former Lincoln city councilman, is recovering at his home in Omaha from a slight heart attack. Iverson said that he is feeling "pretty good" now and that the attack was not nearly as serious as first feared. He had been hospitalized after the attack.

Iverson, a war veteran, was formerly engaged in the insurance business in Lincoln. During his service in the armed forces he was a captain in the transportation corps, stationed in the New York traffic office for two years.

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — Russia's Nikita S. Khrushchev broke through a devout silence among meditating Buddhists Friday with an outburst against Americans, British and French people and traditions.

The setting was the Shwe Dagon pagoda, 2,500 years old and the foremost of Burmese shrines. Worshippers traditionally preserve silence there.

The pagoda dates from 588 B. C. and is kept constantly sparkling with applications of gold leaf to its highest tip, 368 feet above the place where Khrushchev stood. The Khrushchev spire sits on a 168-foot mound and Khrushchev had puffed up nearly 200 steps to reach the base.

Khrushchev stormed against what he called the stupidity of the Western nations as he sat down after his climb. At the end of his outburst the Soviet Communist party boss was gasping for words.

Bulgarian Mum
Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin, touring Burma and India with Khrushchev, sat silently as the party chief unleashed his barbs during a conversation he started with the Burmese ambassador to Russia, Maung Ohn, and into which he drew accompanying foreign correspondents.

Later a government spokesman said orders had been issued to keep correspondents "at a distance from our honored guests in order that they will not be provoked into making statements."

Sore Subject
Khrushchev turned to a discussion of architecture and the talk apparently raised a sore subject: The case of the Russian architect Alexander V. Vlasov, whose work was criticized by the Soviet government while he was visiting the United States and France with other Russian architects.

Looking at a Russian architect named Andriev who is here to help Burma build a national stadium, Khrushchev said:

"Be careful or you might be invited to America. There are some very stupid people in America. After we criticized Comrade Vlasov, they tried to persuade him to stay. The French also repeated this stupid mistake the Americans had made."

Actually there was no reported effort by Americans to persuade Vlasov to remain with them.

Raps Correspondent
Through his interpreter, Khrushchev asked his listeners: "Who is a French correspondent here? You should turn pink with shame."

"But I would like to remain white," retorted Roger Pierard of the French Press Agency.

"According to your political color you can remain even black," the Communist boss shot back, "but if one has faith and shame, one should turn red."

At this point Khrushchev himself was a strong pink and pointing wildly with a stubby finger. Switching to colonialism, a favorite subject of his, the Russian visitor declared: "We Russians are the only ones that are always fighting for the cause against colonialism."

"What about Latvia and Estonia?" asked another correspondent.

"You don't know what's going on inside East Germany," Khrushchev replied. "What the East Germans are doing you are a paid slave writer of capitalism. If you wanted to write something good about Russia, you would starve to death—because the capitalist press would refuse to print it."

Gail Drahota, Columbus Coed, Named NU ROTC Commandant

A queenly brunette, Gail Drahota, was introduced Friday night as the new Honorary Commandant of the ROTC units at the University of Nebraska.

Presentation of the Honorary Commandant and her three attendants highlighted festivities at the annual Military Ball.

Miss Drahota, 20, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Drahota of Columbus. Her attendants, runners-up for the honor, represented each of the services. They are:

Miss Air Force—Phyllis Sherman, daughter of Mrs. Wilber Sherman of Tecumseh.

Miss Navy—Janice Carman, daughter of Dr. Frank D. Carman of Omaha.

Miss Army—Peggy Baldwin, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. J. D. Baldwin of Hebron.

Miss Drahota, a senior major in music in Teachers College, is president of Sigma Alpha Iota, women's professional music fraternity; ladies' sponsor of the University Band and a member of University Singers.

She also is a member of Orchestral, modern dance group; Pi Lambda Theta, honorary and professional organization for women in education; and Delta Gamma, social sorority. As a sophomore she was a Cornhusker Beauty Queen and Sweetheart of Sigma Chi.

The Honorary Commandant was escorted and presented by Air Force Cadet Lt. Col. James Hewitt of Hastings, chairman of the Military Ball Committee.

Escorting the attendants were Air Force Cadet Col. Earl F. Barnette of Holdrege, Army Cadet Col. Charles Gomon of Norfolk and Navy Cadet Capt. Richard T. Hill of Hastings.

2,400 Answer Benson Request For Farm Ideas

... Most Are Concerned About Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson has received nearly 2,400 letters in response to his recent request that the public write him its ideas on the farm problem.

Reporting this Friday, the Agriculture Department said replies ranged from strong endorsement of the secretary and his policies to demands that he resign.

They came from all sections of the country, from city folks as well as farmers and women as well as men. A few came from members of Congress.

Benson's appeal for public suggestions was made in a speech before the convention of the National Grange at Cleveland Nov. 23. The letters are being reviewed by a technical staff. All writers have been promised a personal reply from the secretary.

Ernest C. Best Jr., a Benson assistant, said that of those offering suggestions, a large number urged adoption of measures which would make farm surpluses available to the needy at home and abroad.

Concern
He said most writers expressed concern over declining farm prices and income.

Best said the only appraisal of the letters made so far has been to determine which ones offered suggestions meriting study.

Of 2,270 reviewed to date, 1,450 were said to contain "substantive suggestions meriting further technical review."

Of the remainder, 534 carried comments on the farm situation, but contained no material contributions.

Another 117 gave strong personal support of Benson and the administration; 19 requested personal interviews with Benson to present their plans; 71 contained strong criticism of Benson or the administration, and 79 requested that Benson resign.

Best said that many writers advocated some form of a "soil fertility bank" under which farmers would be paid to take land out of production as a means of curbing surpluses and building fertility for the future. Benson has said the administration will recommend a program of this nature.

A review of the letters indicated that more city writers approve of Benson and his policies than farm respondents.

A six-inch snow, the heaviest of the year, blanketed Alliance Friday, then began spreading over the state dropping up to 5 inches at Scottsbluff, 3 at Chadron and 2 inches at Ainsworth.

Demos Close Split On Policy

Adlai, Williams
To Talk Over
Opinions

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Adlai Stevenson and Gov. G. Menen Williams of Michigan said Friday they are willing to talk over their difference of opinion as to the type of presidential campaign the Democrats should conduct in 1956.

Stevenson, 1952 Democratic nominee, is an announced candidate for renomination next year while Williams is being boomed as a possible nominee.

Both were speakers at the national convention of Young Democrats here.

Stevenson's statement at Chicago Nov. 19 calling for a program of "moderation" brought a retort from Williams last week in Denver that the Democratic party should embrace a "bold and progressive" program.

No Split
Williams, who arrived at the convention Friday, said there was no split of personalities over the issue and added, "I was not in a state of war at any time."

Told what Williams had said at a press conference, Stevenson replied, "I'm glad. I'm not at war with him. I will be glad to meet him and talk about it."

They met briefly at a reception but Stevenson's tight schedule prevented any time for a conference.

Stevenson, former Illinois governor, indicated he may enter the Florida primary in his campaign for the Democratic nomination but withheld comment on other state primaries. He has already announced plans to enter the Minnesota primary.

Stevenson has just completed a tour of Florida.

Return Decided
"Florida has decided to return to the Democratic party," he forecast in a prepared statement to the convention. The state was one of four in the South which voted for President Eisenhower in 1952.

He said he is confident Florida will vote Democratic next year because of "disillusionment with the great crusade which promised so much."

"We have been disappointed with the administration's hypocritical approach to all of our great domestic needs—schools, health, housing, highways, resources," he told the delegates.

"We have been disappointed with a government dominated by limited interests which are insensitive to the farmer, the worker, the smaller business people."

Marine Injured
West Of Wahoo
In Highway Crash

WAHOO, Neb. (AP)—Second Lt. Robert J. Thompson, 22, a marine officer en route from his home in Boston to San Francisco, was seriously injured Friday in a car-truck collision 13 miles west of Wahoo on Highway 92-30A.

Saunders County Sheriff Joe Davis said Donald E. Hoffman, 29, North Platte, driver of the truck which was in collision with Lt. Thompson's station wagon, said he had started to pass a car. He saw Thompson approaching but was unable to get back into his line because the driver ahead of him apparently applied his brakes.

The truck pushed the car about 130 feet along the slippery pavement. It took nearly an hour and a half to get Thompson out of his car. He was taken to Saunders County Community Hospital by the Wahoo Fire Department rescue squad. He suffered a compound fracture of the left leg and severe facial cuts and complained of pain in his chest. He was reported in fair condition there.

Hoffman suffered a knee injury, but his passenger, Medrith J. Bond was not hurt. Hoffman was not hospitalized.

Top GM Men Called Bullies

Auto Dealers Point Accusing
Fingers At Their Bosses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The top men of the giant General Motors Corp. were raked over the coals in front of a Senate subcommittee Friday by three auto dealers who accused them of bullying and oppressing the men who sell their cars.

Chairman O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) of the antitrust and monopoly subcommittee staged the show, directing the GM officials to sit down and listen to the testimony.

GM President Harlow Curtice, accompanied by Board Chairman Alfred P. Sloan and 13 GM vice presidents listened while the dealers accused GM of treating its dealers like "pawns and vassals."

Curie brought along a statement of his own but O'Mahoney decreed that the GM officials first should "have the benefit" of the dealer testimony.

Takes Stand
Sen. O'Mahoney let Curtice take the stand four hours after he showed up.

Curtice testified that the giant auto firm plays fair with everybody.

No management organization he knows of, Curtice told the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, has "a more general regard for the equities of the various groups with which we have contact—customers, employees, suppliers, dealers and shareholders."

Curtice made no direct references to the dealer criticism. He did say dealers' net profits before taxes are now 415 million dollars a year. He said this compared with 72 million dollars in 1940 and represented an increase of 476 percent.

The O'Mahoney committee for weeks has been conducting a public study of GM operations as an example of corporate bigness.

No Punishment
O'Mahoney said at the outset Friday that the subcommittee schedule called for hearing the dealers first. He expressed the hope "no punishment should be visited" upon them or other GM dealers for testifying.

Henry Hogan, GM vice president and general counsel, told O'Mahoney he didn't have to worry about reprisals against dealers. Hogan said there were no reprisals against dealers who testified against GM years ago in an anti-trust suit and there would be none now.

M. H. Yager, Albany, N.Y., dealer, the lead-off star witness of the pre-lunch session, said present.

Ag Field Atomic Energy Uses 'Like Fairy Tale,' Official Says

... Growing And Processing Food May Face Revolution

An Atomic Energy Commission official said here the many ways radioisotopes are being used to solve agricultural problems "reads like a fairy tale."

He was Dr. Paul Pearson, head of the AEC biology section, one of several persons who discussed nuclear progress in relation to agriculture.

The speakers appeared at a Nuclear Energy Institute at the University of Nebraska.

Dr. Pearson explained that soil scientists, using isotopes, can discover for the first time what proportion of various nutrients plants derive from the soil and what proportion is taken up from an applied fertilizer.

Can Save Fertilizer

If North Carolina tobacco farmers made use of information researchers have gained using radioisotopes, he said, there would be an estimated annual saving of 100,000 pounds of phosphate.

"And that figure could be multiplied many times with other crops in other states," Dr. Pearson said.

"This saving is very important," he said, "because there is not sufficient phosphate fertilizer to meet agricultural needs."

Other potential uses of isotopes in agriculture, he said, include development of more effective insecticides, reduction of feed costs and production of desirable and stable genetic changes.

Can Cut Refrigeration

If the new process for irradiating food had been known during World War II, U. S. armed forces could have saved $200 million a year on food shipped overseas, Lt. Col. Belmont S. Evans Jr. said.

Col. Evans, who is with the Armed Forces Institute explained the huge saving could have been made through reducing refrigeration needs and flour deterioration.

Commenting on civilian application of the radiation method of processing, he said meat treated with low dosages of irradiation will last three to five weeks instead of just one week and bread will keep fresh on shelves for six weeks.

Spent-fuel slugs, such as will be available at the proposed Consumers Public Power District atomic power plant, are expensive to ship, Col. Evans explained.

Will Locate Near

For this reason, he said, industries wishing to use this irradiation source will find it profitable to locate near the plant and not in some other state.

Another Nuclear speaker, a University of Chicago biochemist, said it "appears very likely" that the process involving radiation "will be commercially applied for selected uses in food industries in the next decade."

He was Dr. B. S. Schweigert, who also is chief of the division of biochemistry and nutrition for the American Meat Institute Foundation.

He said food industries have shown "intense interest" in the processing method, termed "cold sterilization" since no significant rise in temperature occurs during the process.

Far-Reaching Potential

"The potentials of this method are far-reaching from both the military and civilian applications," he said, "for it would be possible to store packaged foods in the uncooked state without refrigeration for extended periods."

But many factors relating to the effect of irradiation on the quality attributes of foods, effect on wholesomeness of the product, pre- and post-irradiation variables and economic aspects must be considered, Dr. Schweigert said.

He said studies show "a marked decrease in quality attributes occurs during irradiation of certain foods, such as undesirable odors and flavors, discolorations or texture changes."

But some foods, he said, show minimal changes of this type with the use of sterilization dosages.

'Pasteurization Best'

A speech by W. E. Chamberlain of New York said pasteurization by use of limited radiation instead of sterilization by high radiation appears to be the "best bet" in the food field.

Chamberlain, projects director of an American Machine and Foundry Co. subsidiary, AMF Atomic, Inc., could not attend but his speech was read at the institute.

He said limited radiation can retard spoilage of meats, fruits and bakery and dairy products due to surface organisms.

It also can delay softening and sprouting of vegetable field crops he said, and de-infest grains, grain products, spices, tobacco and other pest-plagued commodities.

'Nothing Does As Well'

The immediate attraction to businessmen," Chamberlain said, "is that for this type of service, no other regularly employed agent can accomplish the same thing nearly as well."

Chamberlain said that cost-wise, limited radiation presents a much more favorable picture than use of radiation as a sterilization agent.

Low radiation doses, he said, cause almost undetectable changes in the quality, taste and odor of the product.

Chamberlain said a problem is the present lack of specific food and drug standards or any other guide, "which is primarily responsible for the public's concern about acceptability of irradiated foods."

'Almost Indistinguishable'

But the best scientific opinion, he said, is that irradiated grains and potatoes will be "almost indistinguishable from fresh products and no serious nutritional or toxicology problems truly exist."

The next practical step, he said, is building of pilot plants for food processing in several low radiation areas.

That, he said, is being planned in co-operation with government-vested interests in the food industry.

Massachusetts Governor Visits Vic Anderson

Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts spent Friday night with Gov. Victor Anderson. He brushed aside the recent suggestion of President Eisenhower that he was a presidential possibility and said the President was just being kind.

For the press, Gov. Herter discussed steps he has taken to solve prison problems in his state where rioting took place recently.

The governor said he decided that there was need for an "outside look" at their entire prison, parole and probation system. He laid the difficulties largely to political interference.

Gov. Herter said he called in three experienced prison officials and had them look over not only prison operations but also the 150-year-old laws under which the institutions operated. After the report was received, he said, the Democratic house brought in a 150 page bill to correct laws within two months. It was passed.

Herter is a Republican but he praised the bi-partisan approach to solving the state problem. He explained that the state classification laws were "all fouled up" and that hardened criminals and youngsters were often confined in the same prison.

Gov. Anderson spoke up during the interview and stated that he had promised nothing to "appease" prisoners in Nebraska. He justified his presence at the prison during rioting by saying requests had been made for use of the Safety Patrol and the National Guard, both of which he commands.

By the Associated Press

Despite all the advance campaigning Safe-Driving Day from the viewpoint of deadliness was just another date on the calendar. Sixty-nine persons died in street and highway crashes during the 24 hours of Thursday, Dec. 1, the target day chosen by safety campaigners to point up the benefits of caution.

This was the identical number of persons killed on Thursday, Nov. 17. The Associated Press selected that date at random to gather statistics for comparison with S-D Day.

Thursday's toll was far above the 51 reported on the nation's first observance of S-D Day. That was Dec. 15, 1954.

CONANT DEFIES RED 'STAY OUT' THREAT

BERLIN (INS) — U. S. Ambassador James B. Conant Friday defied a Red "better stay out" threat and made a dramatic tour of East Berlin in an automobile equipped with a radio-telephone.

He said the U. S. will stay in Berlin until Germany is unified.

East German police had declared vehicles equipped with radio-telephones were "illegal." Friday the Communist newspaper Neue Zeit said Americans unwilling to respect East German laws "had better stay out of East Berlin."

Conant, whose East Berlin tour went off without incident, again rejected a Russian general's claim that East Berlin had been turned over to East German control and no longer was under four-power authority. He said:

"We will remain in Berlin until the day of unification (of Germany) and will continue giving Berlin the necessary support."

He said the U. S. will continue to regard Berlin as a four-power city despite the East German and Soviet claims.

Conant went to Red-ruled East Berlin in a sedan flying the American flag in what appeared to be a test of Soviet sincerity in claiming East Berlin is controlled by the East German regime, recently granted sovereignty by Moscow.

Centennial Week To Attract 500 National Guard Officers And Wives

About 500 officers in the Nebraska National Guard and their wives are expected to be in Lincoln Saturday and Sunday to take part in activities planned to observe Nebraska National Guard Centennial Week.

A recruiting conference will be held Saturday afternoon at the Cornhusker, to be followed by a Centennial dinner-dance.

Maj. Gen. Carl L. Phinney of Houston, Tex., commander of the 36th Infantry Division, will be main speaker. Maj. Gen. Warren Wood of Gering, will also be present, as well as National Guard representatives from Washington, D.C.

Highlighting the dinner-dance will be posting of the colors by men in period costume, and cutting of a 100-candle birthday cake.

Held concurrently with the recruiting conference will be regular staff meetings of the Nebraska National Guard organizations. About 30 officers will attend the meetings in Lincoln Saturday and Sunday.

The organizations holding meetings are three with headquarters in Omaha, the 134th Infantry Regiment, 568th Field Artillery Battalion, and 128th Engineers Battalion, and two groups with Lincoln headquarters. They are the 195th Tank Battalion and 734th Ordnance Battalion.

Mayors of the 31 cities in Nebraska with National Guard units have been invited to the dinner-dance, and about half of them have indicated they plan to attend, the state National Guard headquarters in Lincoln reported.

500 Firms Now Have Permits For AEC Secrets, Meet Told

The Atomic Energy Commission has granted more than 500 persons and companies access to restricted data since the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 was established, an AEC attorney said here.

Robert Lowenstein, legal counsel for the Atomic Energy Commission, was one of the speakers at the Nuclear Energy Institute at the University of Nebraska.

He said access permits for restricted data, classified confidential, are issued to persons who can show "potential use" for the information in their business or occupation.

Show 'Significant' Need

Persons who can show "immediate and significant need" for particular topics of secret restricted data may obtain access permits for that information, he said.

Lowenstein pointed out that an access permit is not a security clearance.

"An 'L' security clearance, based on a national agency file check, is required for access to confidential restricted data," he said.

"Q" clearance, required for access to secret restricted data, is based upon a full-background investigation, he said.

He said the AEC is planning a regulation which will allow U. S. companies or individuals to do foreign business even though the communication of restricted data is involved.

But AEC approval will be needed before U. S. Companies can do such foreign business, Lowenstein said.

Lincolnite Dies As Car Skids On Icy Road

Richard B. Samuelson of Lincoln was killed and his wife was critically injured in an auto accident Friday.

Their car skidded on ice and crashed over a concrete culvert on Highway 6 northeast of Milford, Neb.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuelson were on their way to Milford where Mr. Samuelson, 67, and his brother Godfrey had operated a drug store for many years.

The Samuelsons, long-time Milford residents, moved to Lincoln only a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Samuelson was in critical condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital suffering from shock, multiple fractures and probable internal injuries.

Mr. Samuelson was a member of the Evangelical United Brethren Church and Masonic Lodge at Milford.

Survivors include a son, Richard W. of Columbus, formerly of Lincoln, and a daughter, Lois of Omaha.

Meyerott, who received his master's degree in physics from the University in 1952, had been employed for about two years in the electronics division of the Los Alamos atomic energy works.

Dr. Emerson Jones of Lincoln said he received word that Meyerott was a passenger in a car which left the road and that in the crash Meyerott suffered a severed spinal column.

Dr. Jones reported that the Rev. Dale Knudsen of the Lutheran Church at Los Alamos is heading a drive for funds to provide rehabilitation training for Meyerott at the Los Angeles hospital.

While at the University, Meyerott was a member of Brown Palace Co-op, 1201 J.

Gator Bowl' Armada May Bring Probe

McINTOSH, Ala. (AP)—Gov. James E. Folsom's defiant threat to order a "Gator Bowl" armada of National Guard planes to Jacksonville, Fla. Dec. 31 may broaden the scope of an Air Force investigation.

A senior official at the Pentagon said in Washington Friday the governor's Florida flight plans might give the Air Force something more to investigate.

Folsom Thursday night promised to order every available Alabama National Guard plane on a "special weather mission" to the Florida city the day Auburn meets Vanderbilt in the Gator Bowl there.

While Alabama officials declined to say how many planes might be involved in such a mission, Washington sources said they would be most concerned with use of at least two C-47 transport planes and one squadron of B-26 tactical bombers assigned to Alabama.

Passengers

These are planes that can carry passengers in addition to the crew. The Air Force announced in Washington this week that an investigation would be made into reports that Air Guard planes had been used for unauthorized trips to take Folsom and his friends to football games.

Folsom left Friday for Oklahoma City to attend the National Young Democrats convention and was not available for comment on the report that the Air Force might enlarge its investigation.

The Alabama governor came to McIntosh Wednesday to serve as host to New York's Gov. Averell Harriman for a turkey and deer hunt at the lodge of Rep. Frank Boykin (D-Ala.).

'Inspection'

Commenting on the first report of the Air Force inquiry, Folsom said the guard planes would be dispatched to Jacksonville not only on a weather mission but to make a "runway landing inspection" in the morning and a "take-off inspection" late that afternoon.

Air Force and Air National Guard spokesmen withheld comment on the proposed use of guard planes Dec. 31 to wait until such flights actually are made.

Pentagon officials noted that a governor can order guard personnel and equipment to engage in training flights. However, they reminded that a memorandum went out as late as Oct. 31 seeking to avoid misuse of federally-owned aircraft.

This memorandum said proven violations in the future would make any offending state liable to receiving a bill for the cost of the flights.

Federal Business

Under federal regulations governors, lieutenant governors and adjutant generals can use guard planes only when they are on guard or federal government business.

Other individuals may be flown in guard planes only if one of the senior state officials specifies in writing that the flight is necessary and directly connected with guard or national government affairs.

Alabama's Air National Guard consists of two operational squadrons, one equipped with B-26 light bombers and the other with F-80 jets. Each squadron has a C-47 which can carry up to 20 persons. When asked about the pending Air Force investigation, Gov. Folsom said:

"Under my power as commander-in-chief of the Alabama Air National Guard, I am ordering every jet, every C-47 and everything that can roll on wheels, much less fly, to fly over Jacksonville on Dec. 31.

"I hear that the Florida runways are in bad shape and need to be inspected, so these Alabama planes will give the Jacksonville runway a landing inspection sometime during the morning of Dec. 31, and give them a take-off inspection late that afternoon."

Paper Voted

DETROIT (INS)—The Allied Printing Trades Council-AFL and CIO-Newspaper Guild of Detroit both voted Friday to establish a union newspaper.

The paper, in capitalizing on the shortage of Christmas advertising space created by the strike which has closed down Detroit's three large dailies, was formed by the unions in an effort to speed a settlement by management.

We Didn't Score Well

There was special emphasis on President Eisenhower's safe-driving day. Everything that publicity and admonishment could do were done to get the nation through one day of its existence without killing someone on the highways.

The public response was clearcut. Before final tabulations were completed, it was definitely established that 1955 had bettered the figure of 1954. It produced at least 25 per cent more fatalities. It was a crusade in reverse.

That is not to say that the day's toll of at least 65 deaths was not a gain of some kind. Unquestionably there were those who heeded the responsibilities of the day and got through it with a life that might otherwise have been snuffed out. Gains of that kind do not show in a day's collection of statistics.

Youth's Great Opportunity

Out of the welter of protons, neutrons and isotopes that arose from Nebraska's first nuclear energy institute and fogged the minds of an audience of the unscientific, there emerged two clearcut, stimulating facts.

The coming quarter of a century promises to be history's best of all times for alert, ambitious and keen-minded youth.

And Nebraska, if all signs do not fail, is going to be one of the right places to live. It is in line for one of the nation's first atomic energy generating plants, with all that that signifies.

At the institute it was revealed that swiftly accumulating outlays for atomic power will exceed $21 billion. And as if that huge sum

But it cannot be gainsaid that all the instruments that have been brought to bear in the crusade for safety still lack the vital factors that will cut death and loss to an irreducible minimum.

Without doubt unsafe highway design contributes a share. Deaths can be reduced somewhat further by roads built to emphasize safety rather than economy. And without doubt greater safety built into future cars will further reduce tragedy. And perhaps a new look at car-driving competence emphasizing the factors of emotional and physical fitness will reveal another area of life-saving. But whatever the undeveloped factors may be, there is enough evidence now that they should be urgently sought and applied. The crusade for safety is carrying on too long.

were not enough to create a major bulge in the national economy, there will be many more billion than that stirred into new flights by the necessity to supply and utilize the new adventure in nuclear power.

The challenge, the opportunity and the fulfillment offered to youth certainly will surpass anything of a gainful nature the world has yet seen. The nation indeed is entering an era of demand for imagination, enterprise and numbers in which youth must play the most prominent part.

This, it appears, will be especially true in Nebraska where pioneering in the shadow of an atomic installation will bring Nebraskans into first grips with the facts of the new age.

Basis Of Needs

Possibly the most realistic view expressed by Nebraskans attending the White House Conference on Education came from Richard E. Johnson, the field representative of the State Education Association. Along with federal aid, Mr. Johnson was quoted as saying, "federal controls will have to come."

There is a lengthening shadow, in the eyes of most people. Education, in the thinking of most Americans, has been and still is the chief concern of local and state governments and it is a rather impressive fact that all the legislation enacted by Congress in the hope of improving and strengthening education has come from southern representatives in Congress, from men representing a region most closely wedded to states' rights.

The conference which went on record as fa-

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

There is abundant justification for the conclusion that when the historian gets down to describing the first three years of the Eisenhower administration, he will write of it as one of those rare, strange interludes known as an 'era of good feeling.'

The occupant of the White House has enjoyed a widespread popularity. He has seemed so symbolical of the hopes and the dreams of his people, a kindly, well-meaning, middle-of-the-road leader. After dangerous, exciting years, they have sought quiet and serenity—an atmosphere into which the Eisenhower personality fit superbly. If this public mood continues over into 1956, then the likelihood of a 'front-porch' campaign is enhanced greatly. It has been a long time since the nation indulged itself in the luxury of a presidential campaign of this character. The late William McKinley gave it a classic mold when he left it to the late W. J. Bryan to stump the country while McKinley received delegations calling upon him at his home in Marion, Ohio. Nearly two decades passed and once again the late Calvin Coolidge did no stumping in the traditional sense to win the presidency in 1924 while scoring a comparatively easy triumph in a three-man race. And while the late F.D.R. restricted his campaign activities both in 1940 against the late Wendell Willkie, and four years later against former Gov. Tom Dewey, there was some activity on his part in the closing days. The Republican National Committee has held its meeting in Chicago and out of that conference came the word that when Leonard Hall, the GOP national chairman, called upon the convalescing Eisenhower last Monday, the President did not say "no"—neither did he say "yes"—in answering a question that has arisen in the minds of all voters.

Front-Porch Campaign

The same thing is happening to Mr. Eisenhower that befell some of his predecessors. He has not fully recovered from a heart attack and yet the 'palace guard' has been preparing to apply the pressure it alone can impose. There is no direct effort at this time consciously to shape the President's feeling in the matter of a second term. That will come later. But that myth of the "indispensable man" is taking shape and long before Mr. Eisenhower is called upon to make known his intentions, the President will be subjected to the most fearful pleas that his party cannot do without him.

So swift the years that it seems only yesterday when Mr. Eisenhower and his Democratic rival, Adlai Stevenson, were pleading with voters for support in a memorable campaign. As a nation, the pace has become faster. No longer is there the opportunity for leisurely reflection. The shadows of a passing year merge indistinctly into the outlines of a new one. No one knows this better than the man in the White House. Mr. Eisenhower has had an unusual degree of freedom of movement and has escaped some of the isolation which befell some of his predecessors. But the presidency not only is demanding on the strength and energies of whoever may happen to occupy the office but it has a quality that in truth and in fact makes a prisoner of the President of the American people. It will be a strange campaign if those who are closest to Mr. Eisenhower succeed in convincing him that he should be a candidate for reelection—one of the strangest campaigns the American people have experienced.

It should be the hope of every thoughtful American that it does not become infused too much with emotion.

Strauss Sick Of Dixon-Yates Deal

WASHINGTON — Adm. Lewis Strauss, austere chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, unbent a bit after being on a national television program.

On the program he had been asked about the now defunct Dixon-Yates contracts, which for months he steadfastly championed despite criticism from Congress, from the Tennessee Valley, and even from inside the Eisenhower cabinet.

On TV, Admiral Strauss gave a perfunctory, routine answer. But after he was away from the TV cameras and sitting in relaxed mood with friends, he remarked that he wished he could have given another answer to the Dixon-Yates question.

Asked what the other answer would have been, Strauss replied: "I think I would like to have said the Dixon-Yates contract is connected with the earth satellite program."

"I suppose somebody would then have asked me, 'how come?'" Strauss continued.

"To which I would like to put the Dixon-Yates contract in the earth satellite and shoot it into outer space."

TWO AROUND IKE

The men who can claim chief credit for getting Eisenhower in a more receptive frame of mind — if, as Len Hall says, Ike is more receptive — are efficient Sherman Adams, the assistant president, and Jim Hagerty, astute, genial secretary for the press.

The first has done what Ike always thought could be done even before he became president — handled practically all problems except top-top policy. The second has created both public confidence in Ike's health and Ike's confidence in his own health.

The man who did the first, Sherman Adams, has largely fulfilled Eisenhower's private hope that the job of being president of the United States could be more like the job of being president of France, with a prime minister to handle legislative and other matters.

Sherman Adams has done this. He did it to a large extent before Ike became ill, but he has done it 99 per cent since he became ill. Adams not only is assistant president, but he is largely the cabinet. He correlates and coordinates with the cabinet. With a few exceptions, they report to him.

Even Secretary Dulles, who does report to Ike on foreign policy, was careful at Denver not to take up too many major matters connected with the Geneva conference. It might have been better, incidentally, if he had.

HAGERTY AND HEALTH

Jim Hagerty, the other potent figure on the White House team, is not only one of the most astute public relations men ever to operate in Washington, but he has also become the confidant of the President and to some extent his appointment secretary. Sitting in Denver week in and week out, Hagerty had closer contact with Eisenhower than any other man, and as much as Sherman Adams ruled on who could see him.

Most important of all, Hagerty watched every move made by the press and by the doctors to mold public opinion. His aim was not only to create public confidence in the President's health, but to create presidential confidence in his own health.

BOB CONSIDINE

Durocher Given Not Long In TV

NEW YORK—Random harvest—Prediction — Leo Durocher will be back managing a big league club no later than the beginning of the 1957 season. He talks up his television job real big at this time. But a man close to him tells us that the buttoned Lip is simmering toward an explosion that will shake TV as Leo once was wont to rattle baseball to its bones.

The man's life for 30 years has been based on split-second decisions. As a player he had to commit himself with the speed of light on thousands of occasions each season. As a manager he had to make decisions in seconds that affected not only the course of a day's campaigning but, in effect, the future of multi-million dollar baseball organizations whose continued livelihood depended on the whims of touchy fans.

In his new job, that's all changed. In TV they hold a three-hour conference to decide what flavor pie Milton Berle is going to throw next March. It is a calling cluttered with double talk known only on Madison Avenue. Every quick judgment is suspect. Independent action is treason. There is bound to be a head-on collision between Leo and entrenched nabobs who find his way of life as alien as he finds theirs.

In such a clash, Durocher would lose—and by losing he might gain, let's say, the '57 Yanks? (Distributed, 1955, by INS)

In Step With The Sower

The Sower in a trip through the State Penitentiary discovered that all inmates do not lose their sense of humor.

In the guards' dining room we were amazed to find a menu for the day on a bulletin board showing that they were serving "U.S. Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs" soup and "YMCA muffins" for lunch. We inquired as to what they consisted of and were told that guards asked the same question.

The constant inquiry as to what was going to be served at meals caused the inmate cooks to erect the bulletin board but poor guards are just as much in the dark as ever regarding what is to be served. The odd names for food remain on the menu board until just before the meal is served.

A second visit showed that the Air Force soup is chili. Whether it is a sly reference to the weather or what, the cooks did not reveal.

Sen. D. J. Cole, the "Cadillac Cowboy" from Meridian, who has just returned home from a hospital after being thrown from a horse, has several slowly mending broken ribs still needing care. The report is that the senator was hastened in his recovery not only from the injuries in being thrown from the horse but also a heart attack by the fact that British-American Oil Co. was drilling for oil five miles south of his ranch buildings.

He arrived just in time, it is said, to be driven down to see them decide it was a "duster" after drilling down 4,662 feet on the Cole No. 1. Oil sand was found but it was devoid of oil.

So the senator has decided to make a living off his Angus cattle which his good wife supervised and sold during his stay in the Legislature and hospital.

Now that he has given up hope of oil wealth and luxury cruises around the world, Sen. Cole is giving some consideration to making again the race for the Legislature.

A former state legislator attended the hearing before a referee on the charges on which Supt. George Morris was fired at the Men's Reformatory.

He expressed disgust at a law that had permitted those bringing the charges to sit also as judge and jury over the accused. "It sounds like a law the Comintern would decree rather than a legislature," he said.

Then reflectively he continued, "This is a sample of what those advocates of short sessions of the Legislature would provide us. Our problem is not shorter sessions but more consideration being given to the laws placed on our statute books. We need to give every bill and its effect a good look."

The former senator said he was convinced the taxpayer would save money by paying members of the Legislature enough so they could afford to stay long enough to make certain every law enacted was needed and workable.

The past week has brought people from widely scattered sections of the state to the Capitol and they report that the cold weather appears to have blunted the stinger of the political bug. Few names of possible candidates were mentioned for the primaries only six months away.

Members of both political parties reported a "ground swell" of sentiment over the state that "it's time for a change." However, few could mention any prospective candidates. The sentiment for a change was reported both on a state and national level.

Nationally the complaint seemed to center largely on the farm price situation where income was reported dropping with no corresponding drop in operating expenses.

In the state it was a question of taking a look to see "what's going on." The question apparently upmost in minds of taxpayers was, "Are state services actually costing as much as taxes have increased, or would efficient management with public servants staying on the job bring down costs?"

The only name frequently heard mentioned was a son of the late Lt. Gov. Charles Warner to succeed his father. Trial balloons were being sent up by a number of friends and neighbors of the Waverly farmer.

Stories Of Famous Hymns

There's A Song In The Air

There's a song in the air,
There's a star in the sky,
There's a mother's deep prayer
And a baby's low cry!
And the star rains its fire
While the beautiful sing,
For the manger of Bethlehem
Cradles a King!

There's a tumult of joy
O'er the wonderful birth,
For the Virgin's sweet boy
Is the Lord of the earth.
Ay! the star rains its fire
While the beautiful sing,
For the manger of Bethlehem
Cradles a King!

In the light of that star
Lie the ages imperiled;
And that song from afar
Has swept over the world.
Every hearth is aflame
And the beautiful sing
In the homes of the nations
That Jesus is King!

We rejoice in the light,
And we echo the song
That comes down thro' the night
From the heavenly throng.
Ay! We shout to the lovely
Evangel they bring,
And we greet in his cradle
Our Savior and King!

By HORACE B. POWELL

This Christmas hymn was written by a popular and distinguished nineteenth century author and editor, Josiah Gilbert Holland, who published it for the first time in a volume of his poems which he brought out in New York, in 1879.

A native of Belchertown, Mass., Mr. Holland grew up on a farm with few educational advantages, but when he was 21 he decided to become a physician. He studied medicine at the Berkshire Medical College at Pittsfield, Mass., and was graduated in 1844. Happily for hymn lovers, he decided after a brief practice that he had chosen the wrong career, and he turned to writing.

U.S.-India Reappraisal Urgent

NEW DELHI — Through the complexity of this vast subcontinent, with its princely states, its huge provinces, and its remote tribes, those who know it well are beginning to see the threads of unity. The task that began with the achievement of independence eight years ago — the effort to forge a nation out of a multiplicity of peoples, languages, customs and religions — may yet succeed, and succeed with Democratic procedures, with a margin of free choice rare for the Far East.

To this undertaking the United States has contributed, up to June 30 last, more than $600,000,000 in grants and loans, and this total does not include the assistance from a half-dozen private foundations. The American loan providing two million tons of wheat came in time to prevent what might have been the ruin of the whole effort following the failure of the monsoon rains in 1950 and 1951.

But, nevertheless, relations between the two countries have reached a crisis that can no longer be disguised. The visit of Russian leaders has brought out prejudices on both sides that fan a long-smouldering suspicion and distrust. And this comes at a time when the Indian government is starting a new program of construction and development.

It was reported recently that India would ask the United States for a loan of $1,800,000,000. That is not correct. Indian pride alone would prevent such a request.

But the second five-year plan about to be launched is, for India, on such a bold scale that a gap of $800,000,000 in foreign exchange is foreseen and if the gap is not filled the projects for irrigation and industrialization will be cut back. It could mean defeat for India's hope to set the pace in Asia and set it not by force and coercion, as in Communist China, but by cooperation and persuasion.

Because so much turns on the success or failure of this experiment, the hope is that America would come forward and underwrite the deficit. Admitting to that hope, Finance Minister Deshmukh goes on to say that if an underwriting agreement would be worked out, conceivably only a small fraction of the total amount would ever actually be called for. The mere fact of the underwriting would turn the trick.

But in view of current attitudes in Washington and New Delhi this is most unlikely to happen. At best, without some such assurance from the outside the plan will fall short, but not so far short as to have a crippling effect for the future. At worst, India will fall into the Communist orbit lured by Soviet promises and some small performance of Soviet aid heavily coated with pious words about peace and coexistence.

Nothing in the decade since the war has caused so much agonizing appraisal, so much bitter recrimination as why America "lost" China. The American relationship with India has been nothing as close as was the embrace in which we held Chiang Kai-Shek and his Nationalists. That, incidentally, was one of China's handicaps. So in a similar sense we cannot "lose" India. But the consequences will be nearly as serious for American policy in Asia if we forfeit our opportunity and lose the good will of India and the Indian people. This can happen, it is, in fact, already beginning to happen. And is important, but the way in which it is given is almost as important. Policymakers in Washing-

Cheyenne Loses First Place Oil Ratings

Kimball Leads In New Wells Opened 1956

SIDNEY, Neb. (AP)—Cheyenne County, site of the Panhandle's first oil strike and until this year the leader in Western Nebraska oil development has slipped out of first place.

Kimball County has taken the lead in new wells opened this year and Banner County also has outstripped Cheyenne in exploration this year.

Up to Friday there had been a total of 278 new oilers sunk in the Panhandle all but six in the "Big Three" counties, Cheyenne, Kimball and Banner. The other six belong to Superior Oil Co., in the Olsen field of Morrill County.

The records show that Kimball County had 161 new oilers this year, of which 26 were discoveries; Banner had 67 oilers of which seven were discoveries; and Cheyenne had 44 new wells, ten of which were discoveries.

There have been 106 dry holes drilled in Cheyenne County, compared to 84 in Banner and 175 in Kimball.

Nebraska Delegates Opposed Increased Federal School Aid

LINCOLN Star Special WASHINGTON — Although the White House conference on education as a whole was recorded as favoring increased federal aid to schools, Nebraska delegates opposed the plan.

Without exception the Nebraska delegation was reported as voting against federal aid in their discussion groups, but in each case they were in the minority, according to Donald F. Kline, executive secretary of the Nebraska State Education Association.

"Two things stand out in the thinking of Nebraska delegates," Kline explained. "First, Nebraska must put its house in order. Nebraska's neglect of school district organization affords prime evidence to those who would have the federal government step in to help children receive good education."

"Second, many of the good ideas gleaned from other states must be taken home for consideration by Nebraska parents, teachers and taxpayers. Among these ideas is the use of teacher aids, adequate standards to insure holding power of teachers in Nebraska schools and use of pre-fabricated school houses to reduce overcrowding in some areas."

In commenting on the federal aid issue, F. B. Decker, Nebraska commissioner of education, said, "I would be among the first to encourage federal aid to schools with a state where need was clearly evident."

$10,000 Is Sought For Watershed

'Year's Benefit' Sum Asked Of Sanitary District

Representatives of the Salt-Wahoo Watershed Association have requested the board of Sanitary District 1 to agree to the payment of $10,000 for benefits from the construction of 21 dams on Oak Creek branches northwest of Lincoln.

The proposal was presented to the District by Attorney Robert Crosby and Otto Liebers, co-chairman of the Association.

The entire project, Crosby explained, will cost an estimated $228,000 with local contributions amounting to a little less than $20,000. Local funds will come from the Sanitary District and from counties.

Farmers are contributing land and taking part in the construction.

It is hoped, Crosby said, that authorization for the work will be received during the next session of Congress. It will take from two to three years to complete the project, he said.

The proposal has been taken under advisement by the board and will be acted upon at the next meeting Dec. 16.

According to Crosby, the actual Sanitary District benefit from the flood water retention dams is $10,000 annually for 10 years. The District is only being asked to contribute one year's annual benefit, he said.

Sewer Assessment Set For District At 7th, Q

A total assessment of $19,059 to be made against benefitted property owners has been approved by the board of Sanitary District 1 in sewer district 34 at 7th and Q.

The board also accepted rights of entry on three properties for construction of a sewer at 62nd and South, district 37.

The board accepted receipts for the month of $1,752.63, representing sewage service charges against the Lincoln Air Force Base, Huskerville and the Municipal Air Terminal.

Omahan's Pen Term Is Upheld

The Supreme Court upheld a three-to-four year prison sentence imposed on Charles R. Larson in Douglas County for burglary in connection with the taking of furs from a show window of a shop at 3562 Farnam Street, Omaha, in October, 1954.

Larson's defense was that he was merely a passenger in the car in which the furs were found by police.

The court noted there was no direct proof that Larson broke into the building, but added "such proof is not necessary."

"There is evidence tending to establish he aided and abetted others to break into and enter the building in which the store was conducted with intent to steal property of value contained therein. This is sufficient," the opinion stated.

$16,500 Verdict Upheld
In other action the court: Upheld $16,500 verdict Harry L. Fridley obtained in Douglas County against E. L. Brush in connection with a collision on Dodge street road west of Omaha on Dec. 1, 1952.

Upheld Douglas county district court dismissal of suit in which J. Wesley Montgomery sought to enjoin surrender of his license plates and suspension of his driver's license after an accident.

Harriman Blasts Geneva

'Enabled Russ Breakthrough'

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Gov. Averell Harriman of New York said Friday night the Geneva conference enabled Russia to achieve a "major political breakthrough."

In an address at a dinner of the New Orleans Foreign Policy Assn., Harriman said that because of the gains made by Russia through the Geneva conference "the lines of the great alliance of free peoples have been seriously breached."

"Our immediate and urgent task is to reform our lines and regain the initiative. There is a dangerous and fast-moving situation in Asia and the other underdeveloped areas of the world."

Harriman, considered a leading candidate by many for the Democratic presidential nomination, said he would touch only briefly on the way the Republicans handled foreign policy issues because he said the meeting was "a non-political gathering."

Due To 'Developments'

He said the "recent outbreak of criticism" of the administration's conduct of public affairs was not due primarily to the fact that there is going to be an election next year.

He attributed the increase in criticism to "developments in recent months." He said these developments "have given rise to grave public concern that our position in world affairs has deteriorated."

Harriman said the current Soviet offensive in Asia shouldn't have come as a surprise.

He said the Kremlin "blueprinted" it for us in October 1952, at the Communist party Congress in Moscow.

"Communist aggression and subversion in Europe, and in the Middle East had been stopped cold. The Marshall Plan and unified NATO North Atlantic Treaty Organization defenses had developed such strength that Stalin and Malenkov virtually admitted that their plans for an early takeover had failed."

'Long-Range Strategy'

"War was not inevitable, they said; and they laid down a long-range strategy to accomplish their end of world domination by means short of war—by economic and political maneuvering, with emphasis upon Asia and other underdeveloped areas."

He said he pointed out the danger of the strategy many times in public speeches.

Harriman credited the "new team in the Kremlin" with carrying forward "with shrewdness the strategy conceived by the old."

The New York governor said last spring the Kremlin theme-song changed to "relaxation of tensions" and at "the summit conference in Geneva the Soviet leaders achieved the relaxation of tensions which they wanted without any concessions whatever."

'Desire For Peace'

Harriman said that at Geneva President Eisenhower credited the Russians with a desire for peace no less earnest than that of the West.

The President's attitude gave the impression of personal trust of the peaceful intentions of the Russians, he said.

The qualifications and warnings the President included in his public reports on the conference were of little avail and as a consequence, "We have had psychological disarmament among the peoples of the free world."

"After the summit conference not only tensions but efforts relaxed throughout the free world."

Since then the Kremlin has "launched an economic and social and political offensive in Germany, in the Middle East, and in South and Southeast Asia, whose consequences we now see," Harriman said.

He added that it has "long been apparent that the Soviet leaders do not want war, and I have consistently said so."

But, Harriman said, to say that the Russians want "peace" is to make a travesty of the word.

February Bride-Elect

MISS JOAN MARIE JOYNER

Of interest this morning is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Newell Joyner of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Joan Marie, to John T. Bourke, son of Mrs. L. K. Bourke, and the late Mr. Bourke.

The wedding is planned for Friday, Feb. 3, and the ceremony will be solemnized at the Vine Congregational Church.

Miss Joyner is a former student at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Towne Club.

Mr. Bourke also attended the University of Nebraska.

The Brides' Book Says:

A December bride-elect whose betrothal was revealed recently is Miss Donna Lee Morrison, who has chosen Sunday, Dec. 11, as the date for her marriage to Jesse Sears.

Miss Morrison has announced that the wedding will take place at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at the Fourth Presbyterian Church, and that her matron of honor will be Mrs. Russell Thatcher. Lighting the candles for the ceremony will be Miss Morrison's sister, Miss Jeanette Morrison, and Miss Norma Weyand, and the flower girl will be Miss Sharon Morrison, also a sister of the bride-to-be.

O'Neil Salmon will serve Mr. Sears as best man, and the ushers will be Kenneth Draper and Royal Edward Draper, Jr. Richard Draper will be ring-bearer.

Honoring Miss Morrison on Sunday afternoon will be Mrs. Floyd Parks and Mrs. Andrew Bartek who will entertain at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Parks.

Entertaining Sunday afternoon in courtesy to Miss Myrlene Copinger, whose marriage to Duane E. Shrader will be an event of Saturday, Dec. 17, will be Mrs. Henry Duling and Mrs. Virgil Beckman who will be hostesses to a group of guests at the home of Mrs. Beckman. The afternoon hours will be spent informally, and a kitchen shower will be presented to Miss Copinger.

The bride-to-be was honored at a surprise party last week when Mrs. Don Boesiger was hostess at her home on Thanksgiving afternoon. Mrs. Boesiger's dinner guests included members of the family.

TALK OF THE TOWN

THE LINCOLN STAR

SATURDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 3

The Mad Rush Is On

FOR all practical purposes the holiday season is upon us—The usual mad rush is in full force, and will continue from now until Jan. 2. In addition to the frantic search for this and that—the last minute mailing of Christmas greetings—the decisions on tall trees, short trees—or no tree, there are parties—some just to get the holiday off to a merry start—and others for the pre-holiday and holiday brides.

IN the mail yesterday were invitations to a 5 o'clock to 7 o'clock party for which Mrs. Willard Miller Folsom, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Whitmore Folsom, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Folsom and Lowe Folsom will be hosts and hostesses when they entertain at the Lincoln Country Club on Thursday, Dec. 15.

THE first of the holiday travelers make news this morning—They are Mrs. Robert Kinsey and her son, Robert, who leave on Sunday for Chicago where they will spend the holiday season with Mrs. Kinsey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Newman—and where they will be joined a week from today by Mr. Kinsey.

AND mention of travelers reminds us that Mrs. Ernest U. Guenzel will be leaving on Saturday, Dec. 10, for Tucson, Ariz., to attend the wedding of her niece, Miss Marcia Beckley, daughter of Mrs. Harry Beckley of York, and Lt. William Warwick which will be solemnized on Dec. 17, in Tucson.

WEDDINGS and guests and such remind us that Dr. and Mrs. George Westgate and Dr.

To Hear Talk

Capt. Walter Kennedy of the Salvation Army will present the program Tuesday evening at the monthly meeting of St. Leger Cowley Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, which will be held at the home of the chapter regent, Mrs. Lloyd Chapman.

Included among the guests for the evening will be Miss Vera Griswold of Edgemont, Colo.

and Mrs. John C. Tuttle have come from Kansas City to attend the wedding of their niece, Miss Georgann Wythers, and Dr. Bruce Claussen which is an event of this afternoon.

ON the guest list at the present moment are Mrs. Mel Telpers (Sondra Bricker) and her son, Kirk Alan, of Boulder, Colo., who are the guests of Mrs. Bricker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hyman G. Bricker.

Mr. and Mrs. Bricker also have had as their guests their daughter, Mrs. Milton Lipsman and her two sons, Joe Jeffrey and Larry Steven, of Bettendorf, Ia., who left on Tuesday to return to their home.

ARRIVING on Sunday from Atlantic, Ia., will be Mr. and Mrs. Harry Galloway and their daughter, Debbie, who will be the week-end guests of Mrs. Galloway's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Stockstill. Miss Debbie will remain in Lincoln for several days as the guest of her grandparents, but Mr. and Mrs. Galloway will leave on Monday for Hawaii where they will spend a 10 days holiday.

ONE OF our December brides—Miss Sue Ramey, whose marriage to Allan Holbert will take place on Dec. 17, is to be a party honoree today when her grandmother, Mrs. W. E. Bryant, entertains at luncheon at her home. The guest list will include only the immediate members of the family, and Miss Ramey's bridal attendants.

GREAT news from Chicago this morning—It has to do with the arrival of a petite Miss Druliner who arrived at Wesley Memorial Hospital in Chicago Friday, Dec. 2. The young lady is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Druliner, and her mother is the former Kathryn (Tish) Swanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Swanson. The baby's paternal grandparents reside in Benkelman.

Goodbye Party For Pam Phillips

We suspect that Miss Pam Phillips is a young lady with mixed emotions these days—Certainly Puerto Rico has its glamorous angle—but leaving one's young friends is a sad state of affairs. However Miss Phillips doesn't have too much time to be anything but excited—with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Phillips, and her brothers, Tom, Chris and Roger, she leaves next Tuesday for the family's new home in Puerto Rico where Mr. Phillips, in the U.S. Soil Conservation service, has been transferred.

Last evening three of Pam's friends, Sharon Shields, Judith Lutes and Susan Hyland, entertained at a surprise farewell courtesy at the home of Miss Shields. Sixteen guests were invited.

Following the party at the home of Miss Shields, Miss Hyland was hostess at a slumber party at her home when the guest threesome included the party honoree, and the other two surprise party hostesses.

Pictured at the party are (seated on the floor, left to

Business Women Elect

Members of the Lincoln Chapter of the American Business Women's Association had a taste of an Italian Christmas Friday evening when they met for their annual Christmas dinner and party at the B. P. W. Club Rooms.

An all-Italian theme was featured at the dinner, which was followed by the chapter's an-

Pi Phi Alumnae Dessert Supper

The Pi Beta Phi Alumnae will meet for a 7:30 o'clock dessert supper and Christmas party Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Lee Stover, 2304 Sheridan.

A surprise program has been planned for the evening.

Chairman of the hostess committee is Mrs. Neil Hall, and committee members include Mrs. William Wiese, Mrs. Dick Wagner, Mrs. Glenn Wagner, Mrs. Richard Becker, Mrs. Frank Rei and Mrs. Perry Knuth.

Extension Clubs Hold Achievement Day

The annual Achievement Day program of the 63 Extension Clubs of Lancaster County was held Friday afternoon on the College of Agriculture campus. The approaching holiday season was featured in the program theme. Joseph Lotto spoke on holiday decorations.

Group singing of carols was led by Mrs. Altinus Tullis, and a program of special music was given by the county chorus (pictured above), composed of members representing many clubs in the area, and directed by Mrs. Fred Stevens. Accompanying the chorus was Mrs. F. G. Adams, pianist.

The program, which was opened with an informal coffee, also included a skit by the Look-out Extension Club, and a reading, "Ma Joins The Club," by Mrs. Jerry Eickemeier.

Pictured at the right are a few of the handmade articles exhibited by the club members in the Christmas gift display. The examples of Swedish painting on wood were done by the East-Liners club members, and the sequin-trimmed tree decorations were made by a member of the Busy Bees Club.

State Polio Vaccinations To Proceed Without Delay

The new Nebraska polio vaccination program will go ahead without further delay, state health department officials announced Friday. Al Rouse, program director, said additional vaccine arrived this week bringing the total to 55,000 c.c. This is only about a sixth of

Massachusetts Decides Not To Approve Salk Vaccine Use

BOSTON, (AP) — Massachusetts has decided not to approve further use of Salk vaccine for polio until authorities are convinced of its safety.

In a report released Friday by the New England Journal of Medicine, the Massachusetts Polio Advisory committee, which includes professors in Harvard Medical School, leaves the Bay State and Idaho the only two states to withhold approval.

Among committee members are some of the foremost authorities on infectious diseases and polio.

Livestock Feeder Earl Schrepf Dies

Earl L. Schrepf of 4829 Leighton, a prominent livestock raiser and buyer, died Friday at the age of 62.

Mr. Schrepf was born at Elwood, where his parents were early homesteaders. His parents moved to Lincoln when he was five years old.

He was a member of First Methodist Church and North Star Lodge 227, AF & AM.

Surviving are his wife, Martha Pearl; two sons, E. Barney and Jerry D., both of Lincoln; two daughters, Mrs. Melvin R. May of Lincoln and Mrs. S. Fanara of San Jose, Calif.; a brother, Guy of Lincoln; four sisters, Mrs. Ethel Knight of Lincoln, Mrs. Dorothy Swanson of Englewood, Calif., Mrs. Pansy Grissom of Boise, Idaho, and Mrs. Nell Beltzer of Grand Island; and nine grandchildren.

the total allocated to Nebraska when the program was initiated, but a vaccine shortage has delayed the arrival of the vaccine.

In view of recent pronouncements by federal authorities about the general effectiveness of a single shot, Rouse said, the State Department of Health has decided a record this year. To date, 3,844 cases have been reported. The previous high incidence was 1,927 cases in 1916.

The Public Health Service in Washington, when asked about the Massachusetts decision, issued this brief statement:

"Well over 10 million children have received the vaccine since last May without a single case in which the vaccine is suspected of having caused polio.

"The Public Health Service reiterates its conviction that the vaccine is safe and effective."

In its editorial comment the Journal of Medicine lists these points as the basis for the decision:

"1. The possible presence of living virus in vaccine since the inactivation procedure was found to be undependable.

"2. The apparent undependability of safety tests.

"3. The presence of the toxic Mahoney strain as the representative of type I virus.

"4. The continuing difficulties of production.

"5. The potential hazard, however slight, to the vaccinated person.

"6. The potential hazard to the unvaccinated susceptible members of an otherwise vaccinated community from carriers of a live virus introduced in the vaccine employed."

At Pittsburgh, a University of Pittsburgh spokesman said he did not expect Dr. Salk would comment on the report. Dr. Salk could not be reached directly.

not to wait any longer.

He said requisition forms will be mailed to doctors the first of next week.

On the theory that most of the requisitions will be for enough vaccine to give two shots, requisitions will be halved in order to spread the supply, Rouse declared.

Members of the state advisory committee who have replied to the department's inquiry, generally approve going ahead on a one-shot basis because the coverage is relatively greater with one shot from a limited supply than with two shots.

Rouse said nothing has been heard from the national advisory committee, which had been expected to issue a statement after disclosures of the effectiveness of a single shot.

"But we have decided to go ahead and not wait any longer," Rouse commented.

He said the decision to go ahead came Friday afternoon after a conference with Dr. E. A. Rogers, state health director, following Rouse's return from a field trip.

here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

It will not work in the Pentagon. Too much traffic.

Our State Department answered our question on this fresh phase of international neighborliness. It stated on a reliable tapped telephone it would serve no Arabian bunions at tent temperature.

We're not kissing consins with Moscow either. We should stoop so low.

How about Ben's treaty with France? Ben's motto is, "If you want a thing done do it yourself." Paris wants no aperitif mixed with hostilities.

Pete Elliott Still Most Likely Choice

Pete Elliott, 27-year-old University of Oklahoma backfield coach, Friday seemed the most likely choice to fill the vacant Nebraska head football coaching job despite Elliott's denials that he has been contacted or has entered into any agreement with "interested parties" from Nebraska.

Elliott Friday had these things to say:

1. He has not met with Nebraska Athletic Director Bill Orwig, nor with anyone else connected with the University of Nebraska.

2. He has not entered an agreement or signed a contract with a "group of interested individuals" at Nebraska, as rumors indicated.

3. He feels that "Nebraska is one of the really top schools in the country."

Elliott's statements indicated that except for a surprising development over the week end, there will probably be no official word on the Nebraska coaching situation until Monday — and there may be little or nothing then.

Orwig has promised to meet with members of the press at 10 a.m. Monday when he returns from his trip to Toledo, Ann Arbor, Mich., and Iowa City.

Orwig spoke to a "Banquet of Champions" at Toledo Thursday and planned to be in Ann Arbor Friday, but the grounding of planes may change his plans to watch the Nebraska-Iowa basketball game in Iowa City today.

Orwig also will meet with members of the Nebraska football squad Monday at 5 p.m. Presumably the meeting is to allow Orwig to tell the squad his plans for the future.

Thus it appeared unlikely that any major developments would occur before Monday. Earlier, Orwig had said he would like to have a new coach under contract before January.

Elliott is the leading candidate for the Nebraska job according to all indications, but he is far from being the only one.

Friday another name was added to the list.

Perry Moss, 28-year-old University of Miami backfield coach, was said to be a possibility. In Miami the Daily News said it learned that Orwig had asked Moss to make a written application for the Nebraska job. Moss is a former Tulsa and Illinois quarterback, and starred in two bowl games—the Orange Bowl with Tulsa in 1945, and the Rose Bowl with Illinois in 1948 after a two-year hitch in the Air Force.

Moss joined the following list of men who have been mentioned as possible successors to Bill Glassford, who announced that he would not renew his contract on Nov. 19:

Ara Parseghian, head coach of undefeated Miami of Ohio.

Don Robinson, backfield coach at the University of Michigan.

Davy Nelson, head coach at the University of Delaware.

Gomer Jones, line coach at the University of Oklahoma.

Forrest Evashevski, head coach at the State University of Iowa.

Ray Elliott, head coach at the University of Illinois.

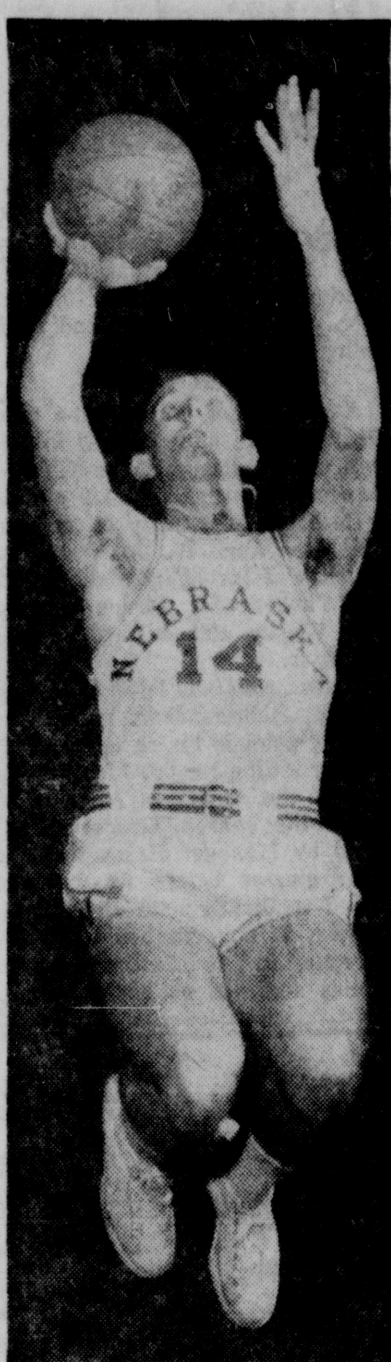

Bump Elliott, brother of Pete and assistant coach at Iowa.

Creighton Trims Buena Vista, 73-36

OMAHA (AP)—Thirteen of 14 Creighton University players scored Friday night as the Omaha club handed Buena Vista College of Iowa a 73-36 basketball trimming.

Bob Gibson, lanky guard, led Creighton with four field goals and five of six free throws for 13 points while Lyle O'Dell had 11 and Jim Berry 10.

Creighton hit 23 field goals and cashed 27 of 37 free throws to 12 fielders and only 12 of 31 free throws for the Iowans.

Southeast Wins 39-23 In Opener

Southeast High School initiated its new gym Friday night by blasting the Wolverines of Wilber, 39-23, with a display of scoring power that left the visitors far behind.

The game was cold from start to finish—witness the shooting of both clubs. Southeast fired the ball 52 times and scored 14 buckets; the Wolverines shot 45 times to score only six.

Percentages like these slowed the game to a crawl, but a crawl was enough for Southeast to take an immediate lead that it never relinquished.

First blood for the Knights was let by Lewis Brown, with the game only 30 seconds old. The senior guard dropped in a free throw to start Southeast on its winning way.

Had it not been for the sterling aid of Bill Apfelbeck of Wilber the contest would have been even more one-sided. The smooth-moving Apfelbeck rolled in three baskets and four for eight free throws to take care of the lion's share of the scoring for the Wolverines.

The game was into the third quarter before anyone on the Wilber team except Apfelbeck scored a basket, and then only one helper—a two-pointer off the hand of mate Clark Suydan.

In the fourth quarter Jim Baker and Ron Broz each added another to further the Wolverine cause. But it was just too little and too late.

The Southeast Knights had long since rolled in enough points to make the game a cinch win, and reserves flooded onto the floor to play.

High scorers for the Knights were Jack Harvey and Rich Madden with eight, followed by mates Lewis Brown with seven and Harland Mook with six.

Next week the Knights play Northeast High at the Southeast gym.

3 NU Sophs To Start Against Iowa Today

By RON GIBSON
Star Sports Staff Member

Coach Jerry Bush and his University of Nebraska basketball team are on the spot before an audience upwards of one million people today.

The Huskers open their season against Big Ten champion Iowa at 2 p.m. in a game which will be telecast nationally (CBS-TV).

Bush will field a green team which includes three sophomores against a Hawkeye team which boasts three returning regulars from its championship club of last year.

Bush announced a late change in the starting lineup, substituting two of his "Pony Express" corps for Lyle Nannen and Norm Coufal. Shorties Jim Kubacki (5-10) and Gary Reimers (5-11), both sophomores, will start along with junior Rex Ekwall (6-4), sophomore Don Smith (6-4) and senior Charlie Smith (6-1). Coufal, a senior, and Nannen, a sophomore, were originally slated to start.

Kubacki and Reimers, both good outside shooters and capable passers, fit well into Bush's "give-and-go" scheme which is based on motion and passing.

The chances are good that Coufal and Nannen, along with other Nebraska substitutes, will see plenty of action as the Huskers attempt to cope with a team that beat them 84-61 last year.

Last year, however, Iowa had played two games before taking on the Huskers, who were making their first start. This year's game is the opener for both teams.

Guards Missing
Iowa, like Nebraska, will be without the services of one regular guard for this game. Sharm Scheuerman is sidelined with a foot injury and Nebraska's Duane (Whitey) Buel will be out of action until January with a broken collarbone.

Despite the loss of Scheuerman, Iowa has three regulars in the starting lineup. They were big men in the Hawk's march to the Big Ten championship.

6-6 Sops
They are Carl Cain, 6-foot 3 forward; Bill Logan, 6-foot 6½-inch center; and Bill Seaberg, 6-foot forward. Tom Payne, 6-foot 6 sophomore will replace Scheuerman and senior letterman Bill Schoof, also 6-6, completes the starting lineup.

The Hawkeyes are a well-balanced unit, as reflected by their scoring in a recent scrimmage with the Iowa freshman team. Logan scored 14, Seaberg 12 and Cain and Schoof hit for 10 each.

The probable starters:

NEBRASKA IOWA
Ekwall (6-4) f..... Cain (6-3)
Smith (6-1) f..... Schoof (6-6)
Smith (6-4) c..... Logan (6-6½)
Nannen (6-2) c..... Seaberg (6-6)
Coulal (6-1) g..... Payne (6-6)

Defending AA Champs Battled Into Overtime

Browns Can Clinch 6th Straight Crown Sunday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cleveland Browns can clinch their sixth straight divisional title in the National Football League tomorrow. And what saves that situation from drab monotony is that the contender this season is Washington.

While the mighty men of Coach Paul Brown haven't been beaten for their conference championship since they came into the league in 1950, Washington's Redskins haven't even been close in that time. The Redskins, in fact, haven't finished on top since 1945,

Race Issue Hits Sugar Bowl Plans

ATLANTA (AP) — Gov. Marvin Griffin Friday asked the Georgia University system Board of Regents to take Georgia Tech out of the Sugar Bowl Jan. 2 because there will be no racial segregation either on the playing field or in the stands at New Orleans.

But his proposal quickly ran into outspoken opposition of at least one regent, David Rice, Atlanta construction man. "I think it is utterly ridiculous," Rice said.

And another regent, Quimby Melton Jr., Griffin newspaperman, while agreeing with Griffin, suggested that Tech be allowed to fulfill its contract with the Sugar Bowl, but that the regents adopt a future policy in line with the governor's wishes.

Ask Sweeping Ban

Actually, Griffin's request, in a telegram to Regents Chairman Robert O. Arnold of Covington was much broader—asking a ban on games by all state college teams against opponents having Negro players or in arenas where spectators are not segregated.

But obviously it was aimed at the Sugar Bowl where the Yellow Jackets have a New Year's date with Pittsburgh, which has a Negro, Bobby Grier, a reserve back, on its squad.

Neither will there be any racial segregation practiced in sale of Pittsburgh's block of tickets to the Sugar Bowl.

Governor's Request

In his telegram to Arnold, the governor said: "It is my request that athletic teams of units of the university system of Georgia not be permitted to engage in contests with other teams where the races are mixed on such teams or where segregation is not required among spectators at such events."

He added: "An immediate called meeting of the State Board of Regents to act on my request is vitally necessary at this time."

The governor, whose only son is a student at Georgia Tech, declined to concede that his request to Arnold was in effect an order to cancel Tech's Sugar Bowl appearance. "The telegram speaks for itself," he said.

Except for Rice and Melton, most of the regents, who control all units of the university system, were slow to respond to Griffin's request.

Weather Slows NU Cagers' Trip

Because of bad flying weather, the Nebraska basketball team traveled to Iowa City by train, instead of plane, Friday for Saturday's nationally televised game against Iowa.

The change in travel plans knocked out a scheduled workout at the University of Iowa Friday so Coach Jerry Bust sent the squad through a workout here before the team boarded the train.

The party was to arrive in Iowa City at 11 p.m. Friday.

Logart Scores Decision Win

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Isaac (Kid) Logart, Cuba's latest hope for championship welterweight honors, avenged his only loss of the year by outspeeding sluggish Virgil Atkins of St. Louis for a unanimous 10-round decision in Madison Square Garden. Logart weighed 144½, Atkins 147.

Although Atkins is higher ranked in the welterweight division and scored a split decision over the 22-year-old Cuban four months ago, Logart entered the ring a 2-1 favorite. He had been only a 7-5 choice earlier in the day.

The defeat snapped the broad-shouldered Knapp's unbeaten streak at nine. He is rated the No. 3 contender while Logart is ranked sixth.

Referee Larry Napp, the American League baseball umpire who was making his debut as a main bout Garden official, and Judge Frank Forbes each had the Cuban speedster ahead, 6-3-1. Judge Arthur Aida had it 7-3. The Associated Press had Logart in front, 7-2.

Young Ike took complete charge of the slow-starting Atkins and before the 26-year-old St. Louis veteran could get going he had blown the first three rounds. All three officials gave Logart these rounds. That was the difference. It was a fairly even fight after that but it was too late for the boxer they call Honeybear out in St. Louis.

The thin-legged Cuban with the fast hands scored consistently with left hooks and combinations of lefts and rights to the head in those rounds while Atkins did practically nothing.

It wasn't until the fifth, when he clipped the Cuban with a right to the jaw, that Atkins got in his first solid punch. Virgil fought mainly in spurts, usually in the last 30 seconds of each round. It wasn't until the 10th that he went full speed a complete round.

Akins landed occasionally with a good right to the jaw and several times between the fifth and eighth rounds he swapped blows with the fast-punching Logart for the best action of the fight. In the seventh Logart was cut over the left eye.

An estimated crowd of about 3,600 paid about $7,000 for the nationally broadcast and telecast bout.

It was Logart's seventh win in eight starts this year and made his record 49-5-5. Akin's record is 31-14-1.

Ray Robinson In Chicago To 'Make History'

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP) — Both principals finally were on the scene Friday for a middleweight title bout which was supposed to have been held at the Chicago Stadium Nov. 4.

This developed with the squadron-like arrival from Greenwood Lake, N. Y., of Sugar Ray Robinson who battles champion Carl (Bobo) Olson for the 160-pound crown a week from Friday night.

The bout will be televised except for the Chicago area.

Robinson, who headed an entourage of 12, equipped with 44 pieces of luggage, stepped off the train and announced confidently:

"I am here to make history."

Sports writers presumed he referred to regaining the middle weight title for the second time. Before he abdicated as 160-pound king in 1952, Robinson had to win back the title from England's Randy Turpin in 1951.

As far as Chicago fight fans are concerned, it was history-making that Robinson finally showed up for his match against a man he beat twice before—but when he was in his prime.

The 35-year-old Sugar Ray sprained an ankle at his Eastern camp just before the sponsoring International Boxing Club sought to lure him to Chicago to wind up training for the Nov. 4 date with Olson.

Basilio Can't Fight Saxton In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The State Athletic Commission ruled Friday that welterweight champion Carmen Basilio will not be permitted to defend his title against Johnny Saxton in New York because of the unlicensed status and background of Saxton's manager, Frank (Blinky) Palermo.

Julius Helfand, chairman of the commission, made the ruling in rejecting the plea of Syracuse, N.Y., Promoter Norm Rothschild for permission to negotiate for such a match.

"Palermo does not have a license in New York and won't get one," said Helfand. "He is an ex-convict and not the kind of a person who should have a license."

"To permit Saxton to sign for the fight himself would be a clear subterfuge as Saxton could go ahead and pay Palermo afterwards," said Helfand. "It would be a violation of our principle to establish clean and honest boxing in the state."

Helfand's decision means that the Saxton-Basilio title fight will go to Miami, Chicago, San Francisco or Los Angeles. Those were the sites in addition to New York and Syracuse mentioned by Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club.

Basilio's managers said the champion, who stopped Tony DeMarco in Boston Wednesday night, will make his next defense against Saxton, a former titleholder.

Cardinals' Bill Virdon NL's 'Rookie Of Year'

CHICAGO (AP) — Bill Virdon, 23-year-old bespectacled outfielder who batted .281 for the St. Louis Cardinals, Friday was named National League Rookie of the Year by the Baseball Writers Assn. of America.

Virdon, who succeeded a teammate, outfielder Wally Moon, for the honor, collected 15 votes in the balloting by a 24-man committee of the writers' group.

Runner-up in the balloting was pitcher Phil Meyer of the Philadelphia Phils, who received seven votes. The other votes went to reliever pitcher Don Bessent of the world champion Brooklyn Dodgers.

Meyer had a 6-11 record striking out 94. Bessent finished with 8-1 and fanned 29.

Virdon, who was acquired by the Cards from the New York Yankees in the Enos Slaughter deal, appeared in 144 Cardinal games this summer and belted 150 hits, including 18 doubles, 6 triples and 17 home runs. He accounted for 213 total bases and drove across 68 runs.

A fine defensive man with speed and a powerful throwing arm, Virdon fielded .966 this summer.

This was the ninth year the baseball writers selected a National league rookie and it marked the first time one club placed a man two successive years.

Virdon came to the Cards rated a better prospect at the same stage than last year's most valuable Olson.

ANDERSON: POWER DISTRICTS MAKING PROGRESS

The power districts "seem to be making progress" to meet the state's power needs of the immediate future, Gov. Victor Anderson Friday wrote Sen. Amos Morrison of Mitchell.

The governor's letter was in reply to a telegram Morrison had sent Monday, asking Anderson if he could report on progress in public power reorganization in Nebraska.

In releasing copies of the letter, the governor commented: "My primary interest is to see that the people of Nebraska don't have any emergency or a brown-out."

My responsibility ends there." Reorganization is a matter for the Legislature, not the governor's office, he said.

"It is my opinion," the governor wrote Morrison, "that the power districts have been making some progress in working out plans for the immediate building of facilities to eliminate the emergency."

Canada Tells Progress
In this connection, he reported receipt of a letter from R. O. Canaday, Hastings, manager of the Central Nebraska Tri-County Public Power and Irrigation District, outlining progress on plans for a proposed plant to be built near Lexington.

The district will receive bids on equipment for the proposed plant on Dec. 20.

The governor said he understood financing arrangements are to be completed soon after the first of the year.

Bonds To Be Sold
Barring delays, the proposed plant should be in operation by 1959, the governor said.

Canaday wrote the governor the district plans to sell the bonds to finance the plant during the week of Jan. 15.

Sen. Morrison early in the fall urged calling of a special legislative session to consider reorganization of the power system.

In his telegram this week to the governor, he asked for a progress report, "so that we can consider action to take after Jan. 1."

The Harris Overpass from 9th to 2nd on O, just dedicated a n d opened Thursday, may bring on some new traffic problems for the Police Department.

A traffic count conducted during the first 24 hours the new overpass was open showed a staggering total of 15,246 cars traveled the new span. During this 24 hours, 7,345 cars traveled eastbound on the Overpass and 7,901 were westbound.

Peak hour flows were from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. when 1,374 cars crossed and from 4 p.m. to 5

There is always the possibility, said, of prohibiting turns a and O and changing the span on the traffic lights to cars across the overpass more dispatch.

Capt. Willis Manchester of the Police Department traffic division estimate that the first 24-hour flow is about 40 to 50 per cent higher

So. Dakota REA Officials Back MVA

Lincoln Star Special
HURON, S.D.—More than 300 rural electric officials from all over South Dakota unanimously adopted a resolution this morning asking for a Missouri Valley Authority to develop and manage the Missouri Basin program.

The officials, gathered for the annual meeting of the South Dakota Rural Electric Association, in the resolution charged that "The present lack of coordinated and responsible direction and management for the Missouri basin has already resulted in a shameful waste of the basin's water, which is its most precious resource."

"This waste of water," the delegates stated, "has caused will cause an acute power shortage in the basin this winter. This shortage has been justified this summer for navigation purposes."

Senator Challenged
A later resolution challenged Sen. Francis E. Case to support on MVA and "stop this shameful waste of water" for downstream if he is "really interested" in doing something for all power users in the state.

Senator Case has recently been criticized by the rural electric group and two general farm organizations of the state for a proposal that these groups charge will destroy traditional preference in the sale of power from Big Bend Dam.
The resolution on MVA commended the Missouri River States Committee for withdrawing its support for an interstate compact, stating this committee "after years of study and effort, (has) to their credit recognized the folly and futility of attempting to achieve the necessary coordination for the basin through the route of interstate compacts."

'Conflict' Noted
The resolution also noted the conflict of interest of the Corps of Army Engineers and the Department of Interior in their part of the development program.

"All serious students of resource development must know by now," the resolution stated, "that the U.S. Corps of Army Engineers and the Department of Interior, with completely different philosophies and objectives, cannot and will not achieve a common program for resource development and management that places the broad public interest above all consideration of department ambitions."

Rural electric leaders indicated that an all-out effort will be made to secure the enactment of an MVA substantially similar to the program which has accomplished such spectacular results for the citizens of the Tennessee valley.

Complaint

NEW YORK (AP)—Winthrop Rockefeller complained that a lawyer for his former wife Bobo is trying to air the cause of their divorce although they had agreed to keep it private.

The lawyer, Joseph Sax of Boston, is suing Rockefeller for $100,000, alleging that the amount is due for legal services to Mrs. Rockefeller before the divorce.

Rockefeller asked the State Supreme Court to bar the press from further pre-trial examinations and to seal the papers in the case brought by Sax.
